

[Notes: This obituary appeared in the German newspaper The Milwaukee Herald on November 18, 1918. There are two inaccuracies in the obituary—the location of 'his childhood home' is not Vingen as stated and he came to America with his mother only, not both of his parents.

--Jerry Gottsacker]

TWO SHEBOYGANERS PASSED AWAY

The two dead are Officer of the Court Frank Gottsacker and lawyer J. Giblin.

The two men are well known and respected inhabitants of this city. Gottsacker was a newspaper publisher and owner of a printing company.

Sheboygan is sad over the death of two of its well known and respected elder inhabitants. Frank Gottsacker, who was known in the whole state as a newspaper publisher and owner of a printing company and also an officer of the court, and Lawyer John M. Giblin are the two who have died.

Mr. Gottsacker, who during his lifetime was a city councilman from the second district, died on Wednesday. A short time ago he had surgery for a long history of abdominal pain. He survived by a number of grown children and his second wife. The newspapers produced by him were the National Demokrat and the Plymouth Correspondent. His childhood home was in Vingen near the Rhine. He came to America with his parents when he was a little child. He lived 66 years. He was well known in the area due to his friendly and loveable personality.

No more details are available about his funeral at this time.